Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know it.

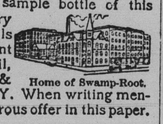
How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What to Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c. and $1. sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail, address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.



Home of Swamp-Root.

Announcement.

To accommodate those who are partial to the use of atomizers in applying liquids into the nasal passages for catarrhal troubles, the proprietors prepare Cream Balm in liquid form, which will be known as Ely's Liquid Cream Balm. Price including the spraying tube is 75 cents. Druggists or by mail. The liquid form embodies the medicinal properties of the solid preparation.

STAY!

Stay! One word I must but mutter,
Speak it clear I dare not yet;
If the truth I could but utter,
So the ending might be set.

Strange beginning, stranger ending;
Love is wonted, love is strange.
When things seem beyond all mending,
Love can work a wondrous change!

Stay! I dare to speak it clearly,
Speak it straight from heart to heart.
Since we love each other dearly,
Who shall say that we must part?

Stay! For when these days are over,
When the mask of life is done,
Still shall lover call to lover,
"Two we are, but two in one."

Dr. Smith's Pills

A Story of the Mind Cure Doctrine.

"Not at all, Dr. Smith. I have not a bad cold. These symptoms are merely the externalizing on the physical plane of improper thought."

This was in reply to Dr. Smith's commiseration on the lamentable appearance of the patient. Mrs. Hollis was a member of the local ethical society, who had lately absorbed some leading features of the mind cure doctrine, but who had not advanced so far as to discard all medical advice. In minor ailments she adhered to the school, but her courage failed when disorders were more ominous; hence her presence in the consulting room.

"The resemblance was so extraordinary as to mislead me," replied the doctor. "I have never seen a more perfect simulation. I now perceive the power of thought to produce phenomena in matter. Your thought must be very bad," he added reflectively, gazing again at the reddened face and streaming eyes of the sufferer.

Mrs. Hollis winced a little at this. "Not as bad as if I had pneumonia," she returned, with a touch of asperity. "But how are you going to treat me?"

"With thought pills," said the doctor.

"Thought pills!" exclaimed Mrs. Hollis.

"Yes," said he, "with thought pills. I should not feel justified in stopping at anything short of them."

"I never heard of them. Are they to be taken internally?"

"Of course," replied the doctor. "Your thoughts are inside of you, and so must be the pills. We have got to go to the root of the matter. And now," he went on, "I will ask you to excuse me a few moments while I prepare them in the pharmacy. I will not be long. Do not give a thought to the pills while I am gone. That will come later on."

It was all very well to decree that the pills were to be excluded from Mrs. Hollis' mind, but this was soon found an impossibility. Struggle as she might, no other topic could be maintained. She tried to think of the children's dinner and of the trimming of her new gown, but in vain. The pills swept everything before them, so to speak. What they were like, how they were compounded, what was the rationale of their operation, these were questions which succeeded each other in Mrs. Hollis' brain and excited thrills of speculation. Whatever may have been the doctor's motive in prohibition, the pills had certainly effected a lodgment and were by no means to be expelled. A slight misgiving did for a moment rise as she remembered that Dr. Smith had some reputation as a wag, but he was too evidently serious at the time for the misgiving to enlarge into suspicion. It was at this moment that he returned.

"I will explain to you exactly what you must do," said the doctor, as he seated himself by the patient and opened a little box. It contained four pills, three of quite ordinary size and color, but the fourth much larger and very dark. "The three smaller pills are not to be taken until bedtime, but their action begins at once. The great point is that you are to follow unhesitatingly any course to which they prompt. They are thought pills, remember. At dinner, for instance, you will find no repugnance to a plate of soup or to any quantity of fruit, but the instant any other dish is before you and you think of the pills you will have no wish to eat it. Before going to bed take the three pills and put your mind upon them. The fourth is to be taken before breakfast. Probably you will be unable to go beyond coffee and fruit. Come and see me late in the afternoon."

"But what is the philosophy of the pills, doctor?" asked Mrs. Hollis.

"They have a twofold aspect," he replied. "I should not like to use the word duplicity"—this with a hardly perceptible twinkle of the eye—"we will call it duplexness. They project into the concrete objectivity the essences and powers of the supra-physical plane and thus show matter as a pole of the immaterial. But it is the reflex action on which I lay most stress. They, as it were, restore the concrete to the abstract. Thought is everything; matter is mere nothing. If the universe can be mirrored in an atom, much more so in a pill."

This certainly had the orthodox sound. The ring of the true mind cure doctrine was there. Even unintelligibility was fairly well preserved. Mrs. Hollis was to some extent reassured. She hardly liked to ask the doctor whether he also was a disciple, but it was clear that he was a student.

"But how about the rest of the time?" she inquired. "Am I to think of the pills all the while?"

"I should not consider that essential," said the doctor after a moment's reflection. "But thought at meals and at night is vital."

"I am not quite sure whether I ought to be taking medicine of any kind," Mrs. Hollis remarked as she held the box irresolutely in her hand.

"But these are thought pills," said the doctor.

"Oh!" said she.

Dinner turned out precisely as Dr. Smith had foretold. The soup was certainly palatable, but thought of the pills was a bar to fish.

"Are you not well, my dear?" asked Mr. Hollis as she declined it.

"Yes," she said; "I am quite well, but I have a dreadful co——; that is, I mean, no, not any fish."

Mr. Hollis observed that every dish went untasted save the berries, of which his wife consumed three plates. But he was wise with years of matrimony and knew that the mystery would be unveiled if patience was allowed her perfect work.

Mrs. Hollis was faithful in all respects to the directions. The three pills were duly taken at bedtime and her mind concentrated thereon till sleep overcame her. Her slumbers were not continuous, and she awoke far earlier than was customary, but certainly improvement had begun. The fourth pill was more difficult to swallow, and she had to bite it. It had a very slight taste, not unlike that of Boston brown bread, by no means unpleasant. Nor was the doctor's provision less accurate respecting breakfast. The thought pills did seem to efface all wish for everything beyond coffee and fruit. As the day went on the symptoms steadily bettered. The head was less choked, the cheeks were not so red and swollen, eyes and nose were palpably on the mend. It was in far more pleasing condition that she repaired to the consulting room late in the afternoon. Little of moment, however, occurred. Dr. Smith expressed great satisfaction at her rapid recovery, and she was cordial in attestation of the merit in thought pills. "But tell me, doctor," she asked, "is it you who put the potency of thought into the pills or I?"

"The powers of nature often interpenetrate," said the doctor, "and we accept the outcome of causative action while unable to assign proportionate value to each."

Mr. Hollis was no less gratified at the quick improvement in his wife and in the library after dinner led the way to an account of the treatment. As the narration proceeded he became more and more interested and intent, though at times a faint twinkle of the eye was perceptible. But hardly had Mrs. Hollis concluded her exposition of the therapeutic process when he dropped his newspaper, threw back his head, clasped his hands behind it and emitted a loud and long guffaw.

"Henry, what is the matter with you?" cried his wife in astonishment.

"My dear," said he when calmness returned, "I could have prescribed diet and jalap as well as Dr. Smith."

"But what about the thought pills?" she asked, with open eyes.

"Pills work irrespective of thought," Mr. Hollis replied sententiously.

Mrs. Hollis was quiet for a moment. "I don't think I will ever go to Dr. Smith again," she at last exclaimed in a voice of some feeling.

"Oh, yes, you will!" he said. "The doctor has great common sense and as much command of phrases as a mind curist. You get the advantage of both systems."

Mrs. Hollis looked grave. Then she raised her eyes to her husband's, a smile broke over the face of each, and Mr. Hollis picked up his newspaper.—New York Evening Post.

Paris Beggars' Children.

Professional beggars in Paris hire children to help them win money from the charitable. There are certain recognized centers for this abominable traffic, and a regular tariff is in operation at these child markets. The trade is by far the briskest in winter. In ordinary times, when no special holiday is in progress, a child of from 5 to 10 years may be had cheaply, the current charge being 18 pence a day, or 2 shillings if the weather is very cold. Babies in arms or those who can only just toddle are more expensive, fetching double and treble this sum.

On Christmas day and New Year's day, when beggars are practically not interfered with by the police and reap their richest harvests, the prices are much higher. As much as a sovereign has to be paid on these special occasions for a baby only a few months old, and even this sum is exceeded in the case of the hapless little creatures who are ill and who are thus likely the more readily to move the passerby to pity. Older children on these holidays may be hired for 8 shillings. If the beggar continues at work throughout the evening, he has to supply the child with supper. He also has to undertake to pay for a doctor if his victim should fall ill from exposure.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Duty Calls.

The duty calls of a man are much the same as the duty calls of a woman. With both sexes a call is obligatory after an evening party, a luncheon, a dinner, a supper, a theater party, and should be promptly made whether the invitation has been accepted or not. Personal calls must be paid the newly married, and should be made on their reception days, if they have sent out cards. A personal call is due the bride's parents if you have been invited to the wedding reception. A personal call should be made on a young lady and her mother after the announcement of the engagement of the former. After a death in the family of a friend a call should be made by intimate friends within ten days of the death. Those who are less intimate call within a month. Such calls mean simply the leaving of a card, and no effort is made to see the members of the family in mourning. After a long absence from home, friends, of course, call as soon as possible.—Leah Lanceford in Woman's Home Companion.

SHE WANTED GOLD.

One Woman's Idea of the Money to Deposit In a Bank.

Most comical stories are told at the expense of the fair sex regarding their lack of familiarity with banks and their methods. One came to the ears of the Saunterer that apparently has the merit of newness.

"My wife had saved up her pin money, or what she hadn't had occasion to use of it," said the relator of the story, "until she had $40 in bills of various denominations. This she was extremely desirous of securing gold for, and every day when I came home to dinner she would haul me over the coals because I had forgotten to procure the shining metal. Finally she said she would attend to the matter herself. That evening she greeted me with a triumphant smile.

"'I got my gold,' she exclaimed as soon as I entered the house, 'but I had a time in doing it, though.'

"Then she told me how she had gone to the mint with her bills and been refused the coveted coin because the notes weren't good notes. Next she hustled around to a bank and secured four $10 gold pieces. These didn't suit her because they weren't new and shiny, so she trotted back to the mint with them and exchanged them for two double eagles, fresh from the dies. I listened to her recital and asked her to let me see the coins.

"'Let you see them!' she exclaimed in surprise. 'Why, I haven't them any more, you goose!'

"'Haven't them any more?' I repeated. 'What did you do with them?'

"She looked at me with mingled scorn and contempt.

"'I deposited them in the —— Savings bank, of course. That's what I wanted the gold for. What did you think I was going to do with them? Keep them around the house to look at?'

"But I was too busy laughing just then and for half an hour afterward to make any reply."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

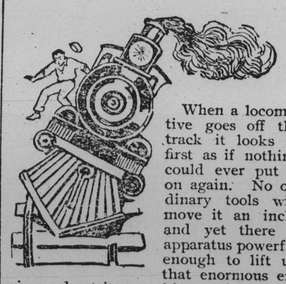
THE FORCE OF HABIT.

How It Once Played a Mean Trick on Frederick Villiers.

E. W. Sabel, in The Saturday Evening Post, tells an anecdote of Frederick Villiers, the famous war correspondent. Villiers had been under fire for some days, the enemy bombarding the force to which the artist was attached, so that the arrival of a shell was a commonplace circumstance to be treated in the usual way. Out of this ordeal he came unscathed to London and was strolling down the crowded Strand.

On a sudden the pedestrians were appalled to see him fling himself at full length upon the greasy, muddy pavement and there lie on his face, rigid as a dead man. From all directions men rushed to render him assistance. They turned him over to rub his hands and unbotton his collar, expecting to find him in a fit. But no. On his face they found not the pain and pallor of epilepsy, but astonishment and mud. Villiers, when they laid hold of him, quickly jumped to his feet, shook the mud from his hands and clothes and then looked around for an explanation of his own apparently idiotic act. The explanation was forthcoming.

A few yards behind him stood a horse and cart. The carter had a moment after Villiers passed pulled the pin and allowed the cart box to dump upon the ground a load of gravel. The heavy beams of the cart, of course, struck the wood paving with a resounding "dull thud," and the clean gravel hissed out with an evil roar. This combination of sounds, the war artist declared, was identical with the striking of a live shell, and Villiers, forgetting that he then stood some thousands of miles from the seat of war, automatically flung himself down to await the dreadful explosion.



When a locomotive goes off the track it looks at first as if nothing could ever put it on again. No ordinary tools will move it an inch, and yet there is apparatus powerful enough to lift up that enormous engine and set it smoothly running again. When the human constitution is thrown off the track by some frightfully complicated disease, it looks as if only a miracle could restore it; and yet it can be done.

"It is my greatest desire," writes Mrs. Wm. S. Vollmer, of Concord, Cabarrus Co., South Carolina, in a grateful letter to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., "to have you publish my daughter's cure; for it is the nearest to a miracle that I ever witnessed. She had St. Vitus's Dance so badly she could not hold her hands, feet or head still one moment, only when asleep. Mornings she could not dress herself; she would reel and often fall. Her shoulders and head were constantly jerking with great difficulty. Her tongue was often thrown out, and her face in different shapes.

"She could not take a dipper of water nor food, nor anything to her mouth. If she tried to put any food to her mouth she would smear it over her face and bosom. For several weeks she could not chew her food; all solid food I had to mash up fine. We could hardly understand anything she would try to say.

"I bought one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, one bottle of his 'Favorite Prescription' and one vial of his 'Pleasant Pellets.' I wrote to Dr. Pierce and he answered promptly, giving advice how to give his medicines, and also how to keep her hygienic surroundings as near perfect as I could.

"After taking the medicines three weeks, I noticed the symptoms gradually leaving. I continued until the last dose of the two bottles (one of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and the other of 'Favorite Prescription') was given, then she needed no more. Those two bottles, with a vial of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, made her perfectly well. I wish everybody knew the great virtue in Dr. Pierce's medicines. If persons wishing to know more will write, enclosing stamp, I will gladly answer."

Do not hesitate to write to Dr. Pierce. He will advise you by mail, free of charge.

SONOMA, FEBRUARY 17, 1900.

THE celebrated Mock water case, on trial the past two or three weeks in Santa Rosa, came to an end on Friday of last week. The verdict of the jury was a victory for the old City Council, which gave to our sister town her present magnificent water works system. The jury decided that the works were worth $25,000 more than the Council paid for them. The verdict was a just one and a great victory for the people over a grasping corporation and a few chronic anti-water kickers in Santa Rosa of the Sonoma stripe. This verdict will go a long way toward encouraging municipal improvements all over the State. Here in Sonoma it was heralded with joy by those who favor municipal ownership of water works and other public improvements.

A LOS ANGELES dispatch conveys the reassuring and cheerful news to the subscribers to the Gen. Lawton fund "that Col. Preston, the financial advisor of the Lawtons," has arrived in that city to receive the widow, who is expected there in about two weeks. As the late General Lawton was deeply in debt to "his financial manager" when he went to the wars—in fact the gallant Colonel holds a $5,000 mortgage on the widow's Southern California home—we would suggest it were better for her to dispense with a financial manager and look after that $100,000 fund herself.

THE INDEX-TRIBUNE some years ago saved the taxpayers of this valley $2000 in its opposition to the leasing of the High School building on Broadway for ten years. The building had actually been leased by the High School board of 1893 at that figure when the illegality of the transaction was pointed out in these columns and the $200 that had been paid to bind the "bargain" had to be returned to the High School treasury. We might here add that the building was subsequently purchased outright for $1500 and is now the property of the Sonoma Valley Union High School District.

HON. EMMET SEAWELL, attorney for the old City Council in the celebrated Mock case, did himself proud in his closing address to the jury. He presented one of the most eloquent, masterly and logical arguments in favor of his clients that has ever revibrated through the corridors of the Sonoma county Court House.

Do not be misled by those who are opposing a municipal ownership of water works. These opponents offer no sensible reason why the contemplated bond proposition should not carry because there is none to offer. The argument is all on the other side.

EVERY citizen interested in the prosperity of Sonoma should support the City Trustees in their laudable endeavor to give Sonoma a municipal system of water works.

Drowned at Tiburon.

Agnes Jane Ahern, the fifteen-month-old baby girl of James Ahern, a locomotive engineer residing with his family in Tiburon, was drowned in that place last Thursday. The child was playing on the back porch of the house, up to which the waters of the lagoon dash at high tide. The little one was missed and the mother went about the town looking for her. The child was no where to be found and the mother, walking into the back yard, was horrified at seeing her daughter lying face downward in the mud. A coroner's jury rendered a verdict of accidental death. The unfortunate child was a niece of Mrs. L. H. Green of this place and was extremely bright and intelligent.

Petition for a Homestead.

A petition was filed in the Superior Court on Thursday by Louis H. Green, administrator of the estate of the late William Green, asking the court to set aside a homestead for the use of the family. The property of the estate is valued at several thousand dollars. Judge Dougherty signed an order on Thursday giving permission for the sale of personal property.

SUPERIOR COURT NOTES.

Judge Dougherty presided in department one of the Superior Court on Monday and called the calendar.

A sale of real estate was ordered in the matter of the estate and guardianship of Melville Prince and others in a bond of $300.

The will of the late William Lodwick was admitted to probate. J. W. Rose was appointed administrator in a bond of $100.

The matter of the admission of the will of Marco Bonacich was taken under advisement.

The account in the matter of the estate of Laura V. Seavey and others was settled.

The second annual account of the estate of Giaconda Gianella was settled and partial distribution was ordered.

The final accounts were settled and distribution ordered in the estates of Edward S. Brown and Mary Dabner.

A sale of personal property was ordered in the estate of Gustaf de Bruyne.

You Can't Dodge Them

Did you ever try to dodge the rain-drops? Did not succeed very well, did you? It's just as useless to try to escape from the germs of consumption. You can't do it. They are about us on every hand and we are constantly taking them into our lungs.

Then why don't we all have this disease? Simply because these germs cannot gain a foothold in a strong throat and lungs. It's when these are weak that the germs master.

The body must be well supplied with fat. The danger comes when the blood is poor and the body is thin. If your cough does not yield, and your throat and lungs feel raw and sore, you should not delay another day. Take of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites at once. It will heal the inflamed membranes and greatly strengthen them as well. The digestion becomes stronger, the appetite better and the weight increases. The whole body becomes well fortified and the germs of consumption cannot gain a foothold.

It's this nourishing, sustaining and strengthening power of SCOTT'S EMULSION that has made it of such value in all wasting and exhausting diseases.

SANTA ROSA WATER CASE.

FINDINGS OF THE JURY APPROVED.

The Water System Cost $165,701 and is Worth $190,000.

On Saturday last Judge Daingerfield in open court signed the decree on accounting in the celebrated Mock case, and the verdict of the jury rendered the previous day, which was a great victory for the old City Council, stood approved. The decree among other things recites as follows:

"And now the chancellor finds the actual value of said system of water works and appurtenances therein mentioned in the first verdict was $190,000 on December 3, 1896, and that the value of the work and material mentioned in the second verdict was $161,000 at the time the work was done and the material furnished.

"And on February 10, 1900, this court ordered that a decree be entered in favor of plaintiff against all defendants, except Mobley, for his, plaintiff's, accrued costs, and in favor of defendant, the City of Santa Rosa, against all of the other defendants, except Mobley, for its costs.

"And, whereas, it appears that the deficiency contemplated in paragraph 4 of the decree as modified, between $165,701.25 and the value of the water system as found by the court does not and did not exist, it is hereby ordered, adjudged and decreed that no deficiency judgment be entered against any defendant herein and it is hereby further ordered, adjudged and decreed that the accounting mentioned in said paragraph be and the same is hereby brought to a close; and it is hereby ordered, adjudged and decreed that said amount, to-wit, $165,701.25, has been in and by said accounting fully accounted for, and that nothing in the premises is due to the beneficiary of the trust herein, to-wit, the City of Santa Rosa; and the Trustees are hereby fully discharged from said trust and from the further administration thereof.

"It is further ordered and adjudged that plaintiff, Wesley Mock, have and recover of and from defendants, the City of Santa Rosa, a municipal corporation, E. F. Woodward, F. Berka, C. N. Collins, E. D. Harris, T. P. Keegan, G. A. Tupper, J. S. Wilson, M. V. Vanderhoof, Robert Effey and P. B. Perkins, and that said defendants pay unto said Wesley Mock, his, said Mock's accrued costs therein, taxed by consent at twenty-one ($21) dollars. It is further ordered and adjudged that defendant, the City of Santa Rosa, a municipal corporation, have and recover of and from defendants (heretofore mentioned), and that said defendants pay unto said City of Santa Rosa, a municipal corporation, its costs of suit herein taxed at $——.

William R. Daingerfield, acting judge. Done in open court, February 10th, 1900."

On motion of plaintiff, the chancellor granted sixty days in which to prepare and serve a proposed bill of exceptions in the cause.

Surprise Party.

About thirty-five of Sonoma's jolliest young people tendered Miss Theo Bates a surprise party on Saturday evening of last week. The Bates home is noted for its hospitality and the evening was one of much pleasure to all. The hours were passed in listening to vocal and instrumental music, the playing of games, dancing and other social pastimes. Delicious refreshments were served in due time, after which the merriment continued until a late hour when all regretfully took their departure.

It Hangs On

If it was only health, we might let it cling.

But it is a cough. One cold no sooner passes off before another comes. But it's the same old cough all the time.

And it's the same old story, too. There is first the cold, then the cough, then pneumonia or consumption with the long sickness, and life trembling in the balance.

There is no better medicine for the babies than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Its pleasant taste and prompt and effectual cures make it a favorite with mothers and small children. It quickly cures their coughs and colds, preventing pneumonia or other serious consequences. It also cures croup and has been used in tens of thousands of cases without a single failure so far as we have been able to learn. It not only cures croup, but when given as soon as the croupy cough appears, will prevent the attack. In the cases of whooping cough it liquefies the tough mucus, making it easier to expectorate, and lessens the severity and frequency of the paroxysms of coughing, thus depriving that disease of all dangerous consequences. For sale by F. Duhring.

THAT WONDERFUL CURE.

Contradicted by a Resident of this Place.

MR. EDITOR—Dear Sir: Some weeks since the county papers published an article in reference to my son Spencer being cured of hip disease by Mrs. John Meche. This is not true. Thinking the publications only local I paid no attention to the matter at the time.. I now find that the articles have been copied by the newspapers throughout the State. In justice to my son's physician I wish to contradict the statements then made.

Respectfully,

MRS. G. S. HARRIS.

Rope Walking at Niagara.

The man who wanted to walk across Niagara Falls on a rope, in imitation of a famous rope-walker, was wisely restrained by the authorities. Probably he is thankful that such was the case. Death comes soon enough, without risking life needlessly. Take the inroads of disease for example. Common ailments like constipation, dyspepsia, billiousness, malaria and nervousness, do much to shorten life. There is a medicine that will cure these, if taken faithfully and in time, and that is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Set the stomach right and good health is sure to follow. This peerless remedy has a record of over fifty years of cures to back it up. Use it regularly, and all these diseases will be eradicated, and health and vitality take their place. When in need of a medicine of this kind, get the old reliable Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, with a Private Revenue Stamp over neck of bottle.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local reatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars reward for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address.

SONOMA INDEX - TRIBUNE.

H. H. GRANICE, Proprietor.

SONOMA, SATURDAY, FEB. 17, 1900

THE LOWER SHELF.

When from the chatter I retire
And close my study door behind,
A chair is wheeled before the fire—
A thoughtful hand has drawn the blind.
Then o'er the shelves I range my eye,
Where volumes mix with pipes and delf,
The stately pompous fellows—high;
The ragged—on the lower shelf.

They line my study's narrow wall,
These friends to whom for rest I come,
I cannot say I know them all,
But this I'll swear—I worship some.
And would you know the gods I serve
With love that's well nigh worthy self,
Glance, stranger, o'er the shabby curve
That bulges on the lower shelf.

You mount a somewhat shaky chair;
You point to princely tomes above,
With, "This is fine!" and "This is rare!"
But where's the book a man can love?
Ah, leave the grand ones, I beseech!
They do but conjure thoughts of pelf,
While these untidy beggars reach
To heaven from the lower shelf.

—Pall Mall Gazette.

A CURIOSITY OF ALASKA.

Beaches Formed by Driftwood From All Over the World.

One of the greatest curiosities noted by travelers in Alaska is the wonderful haven of driftwood on the coast between Yakatag and Kyak islands, some 1,200 or 1,500 miles northeast from Seattle. The constant deposit of logs and driftwood in this particular spot, which has been going on for hundreds, perhaps thousands, of years, is due to the phenomena of the tides, the Pacific gulf stream, the mysterious ocean currents and the peculiar formation of the shore lines at that point.

Logs and timbers are readily identified there as having come from Japan, China, India and other parts of Asia, as well as from California, Washington and other parts of the American continent. There are fine logs of the camphor tree, the mahogany, the redwood and the pine in this driftage. Some of those from the state of Washington contain the names of the men who felled the trees and of the sawmills for which they were destined, but never reached. Logs eight feet in diameter are in this novel woodyard, and some entire trees 150 feet long are there, uplifted by the roots, cast into the sea by some terrible tempest and sent floating round the world. Other persons on the beach descry big trees floating shoreward, with fantastic roots above the waves like some sea monster. One beach after another has been formed by the floating timbers, and a little distance back from the shore the deposits are so old that the wood in some places is petrified, while a little deeper in the earth it has turned into coal. The newer logs are without bark and as hard as stone, due, it is thought, to their long immersion in salt water. They have all taken on a whitish appearance. In places the timbers are piled 20 feet high; at other points they rise to a height of only four or five feet.

Under this wonderful beach are found large quantities of dark, ruby sand, rich in fine particles of gold, for the separation of which no successful process has yet been discovered.—Chicago Times-Herald.

A Lost King.

In olden times, when European kings were as plentiful as Kentucky colonels are today, it was not an exceptional occurrence for a king to disappear and never been heard of again. In ancient times, however, the people have been more careful of their kings.

So when King Sebastian of Portugal disappeared in battle July 29, 1578, while fighting the Moors at Alcazar, there was great commotion. The Moors surrendered to the Portuguese a body said to be that of the king, but it was rumored that the Moors had the king alive in custody.

The surrendered body was buried with royal honors at Belem, but the faithful Portuguese persisted in waiting for the return of their king. Long after he would have died in the course of nature his countrymen longingly awaited his coming.

Even up to this day the legend of the return of King Sebastian is believed by many, and on stormy nights credulous Portuguese citizens will wrap their cloaks about them and go outside and watch the storm, thinking that the king may appear in a cloud of fire again to rule.

What Is a Sleeper?

Here is a definition which is as difficult to read rapidly as "Peter Piper picked a peck of pickled peppers" and yet is more sensible. In fact, it is an actual statement of facts, as you will find if you read it slowly:

A sleeper is one who sleeps. A sleeper is that in which a sleeper sleeps. A sleeper is that on which the sleeper runs while the sleeper sleeps. Therefore while the sleeper sleeps in the sleeper the sleeper carries the sleeper over the sleeper under the sleeper until the sleeper which carries the sleeper jumps the sleeper and wakes the sleeper in the sleeper by striking the sleeper under the sleeper on the sleeper, and there is no longer any sleeper sleeping in the sleeper on the sleeper.

No Woman May Reign.

The question has been asked why none of the daughters of the czar may be a successor to the throne on which the great Catherine proved her capacity. The exclusion rests only on an edict of the Emperor Paul, the son of Catherine the Great, issued to discredit his mother's memory.

France has as many as 45,000 families, with 130,000 individuals, claiming a title of nobility; but, as a matter of fact, only about 450 families can prove their claim to descent from a noble family in feudal times.

Near the city of Durban, South Africa, is the Place of Death, a funnellike cleft in the coast rocks, into which in times gone by the Zulu chiefs were accustomed to take the victims of their wrath to die.

Strange Prophecies.

Clement V and Philip IV procured the condemnation of Molay, the grand master of the Templars, to the stake. As he was led to execution Molay cited his persecutors to appear before God's throne, the king within 40 weeks and the pope within 40 days. Within those respective times both died. Rienzi, the last of the tribunes, condemned to death Fra Moriale. When he had pronounced the sentence, the culprit summoned the judge to meet death himself within the month, and within the month Rienzi was assassinated.

In 1575 Nanning Koppezoon, a Roman Catholic, tortured to death during the religious strife in the Netherlands, recanted his extorted confession when on the way to the scaffold. A clergyman, Jurian Epeszoon, tried to drown his voice by clamorous prayer. The victim summoned him to meet him within three days at the bar of God, and Epeszoon went home and died within that time. While at the stake Wishart openly denounced Cardinal Beaton: "He shall be brought low, even to the ground, before the trees which have supplied these fagots have shed their leaves." The trees were but in the bravery of their May foliage when the bleeding body of the cardinal was hung by his murderers over the battlements of St. Andrews.—Chambers' Journal.

The Butterfly's Pocket.

The male butterflies have the proud privilege of a pocket, but the pocket of a butterfly is wonderfully made. It is really an extension of the under wing folded back on the upper side, but it is exquisitely colored and marked like the upper side, so that it is very hard to detect, and no one has yet discovered just how it is opened, although undoubtedly the butterfly can throw it open while he is flying.

At first glance there seems to be only white or amber colored silk floss within, but examine this with a microscope and you will find twisted ribbons, slender rods shaped like a shepherd's crook, others jointed bamboolike and flexible rods and tiny scales of various sorts and patterns.

It is known that insects have a marvelously keen scent, and it is believed that all these odd little objects are perfume boxes and that the fragrance so thrown abroad is a signal call to the female butterfly, which may be wandering about in the air. It is, to say the least, a very interesting guess, and there is evidence to prove that butterflies and moths are summoned from distances by odors that we would hardly notice.—Philadelphia Times.

A Maori Legend.

In Cassell's Little Folks there is a quaint Maori fairy tale which concludes thus: "Suddenly the father, who had been looking up into the western sky, cried out in a glad voice: 'There they are! I see them!' The mother came running out at his cry, and together they saw their two children standing hand in hand far away in the sides of the sky, the two little stars that had not been there before. 'Let us follow them,' said the mother, and together they rose into the deepening twilight and fled after their children.

"But Piri and Noko, far off in the sky, saw their parents coming and, thinking they were angry, sped away toward the western horizon. The parents followed, and when they reached the highway of Tane that god of light changed them into stars. And now, when the night is clear, you may see two little twin stars flying away toward the west and some distance behind two larger stars in vain pursuit. Thus forever they go round and round the world, Piri and Noko running away from their parents because they were so foolish as to think their mother did not love them."

An Editor's Life Saved by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

During the early part of October, 1896, I contracted a bad cold which settled on my lungs and was neglected until I feared that consumption had appeared in an ancient state. I was constantly coughing and trying to expel something which I could not. I became alarmed and after giving the local doctor a trial bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the result was immediate improvement, and after I had used three bottles my lungs were restored to their healthy state.—B. T. EDWARDS, Publisher of The Review, Wyant, Ill. For sale by F. Duhring. *

"I think I would go crazy with pain were it not for Chamberlain's Pain Balm," writes Mr. W. H. Stapleton, Hermine, Pa. "I have been afflicted with rheumatism for several years and have tried remedies without number, but Pain Balm is the best medicine I have got hold of." One application relieves the pain. For sale by F. Duhring. *

The Latest Yarn.

A Pittsburg drummer tells this new yarn I always carry a bottle of Kemp's Balsam in my grip. I take cold easily and a few doses of the Balsam always make me a well man. Everywhere I go I always speak a good word for Kemp. I take hold of my customers—I take old men and young men and tell them confidentially what I do, when I take cold. At druggists, 25c. and 50c.

A Minister's Mistake.

A city minister was recently handed a notice to be read from his pulpit. Accompanying it was a clipping from a newspaper bearing upon the matter. The clergyman started to read the extract and found began :that it "Take Kemp's Balsam, the best cough ure." This was hardly what he expected and, after a moment's hesitation, he turned it over, and found on the other side the matter intended for the reading.
